

Girls color message to LA mayor

MORONGO VALLEY — Two Morongo Valley girls won a Stop the Towers coloring contest at the Morongo Valley Fiesta Days.

The California Desert Coalition's coloring contest gathered 47 entries in two categories: 4 years and under and 5 years and up.

Four-year-old Jazmine Marszal and 8-year-old Christine Robleto won their categories.

All the pictures colored by children, along with their parents' petition request, will be sent to Los Angeles Mayor Villaraigosa.

The petition reads, "We hope our children's artwork will remind you of our desert wildlife and that you will not put these creatures, our conserved lands and our community at risk from LADWP's Green Path North transmission line project."

Jazmine Marszal, 4, and Christine Robleto, 8, both of Morongo Valley, won a "Stop The Towers" coloring contest this weekend.
